GABEY TJON A THAM

As an installation artist my artistic practice revolves around the question: How natural is nature in our current time? In my work I'm researching the complex systems that occur both in nature and in our digital world and how they affect each other through ever evolving processes. These principles are explored through audiovisual installations that are balancing between virtual and analog realities. By acquiring cross-disciplinary knowledge in the natural sciences and computer science I find connections between the natural and artificial in our anthropocentric environment. In my current practice I'm focusing on working from location-specific experiences to reflect directly on environments where agents function with their own time cycles and behaviour, influencing a living system in becoming.
