

LENA LONGEFAY

"Art is what makes life more interesting than art", Robert Filiou.

Lena Longefay's artistic practice explores the complexity of beliefs. Rejecting the idea of seeking solutions, instead, it dives into the messy and long-lasting issues within society through traditions, labour and faith. Research holds a strong place in her practice as she aims at making graspable complexity by layering concepts and anecdotes into an arrangement. Lena uses various mediums and techniques such as drawing, painting, food, singing, sculptures, etc sometimes gathered into an installation, sometimes animated through lecture performances during which she embodies different characters using masks and props. She is at the moment engaging with wine as a medium to reflect upon the relationships between terroir, agriculture and peasantry. Her work embraces spontaneity and the inherent imperfections of experimentation. She mainly uses found or affordable materials. Re-use is important to her in both material and conceptual fields. Her exhibitions offer a glimpse of alternative possibilities, inspiring the audience to do. Lena Longefay values the nourishing potential of friendship and feedback serves as a vital catalyst for growth, enriching the ongoing dialogue that shapes her practice. Collaborations serve as a source of inspiration for her own creativity. She is part of the cooking duo "Fabas" together with artist Alejandra Lopez, they create edible installations that rejoice in moments of coming together. She is also developing the "Try-Out-Gallery", a monthly breakfast feedback session for artists in The Hague
